Once this course is deleted, all of our political science majors will have to meet their FYE requirement outside the department. Our Chair Gretchen Bauer has spoken with Avron Abraham from the Office of Undergraduate Studies about returning our majors to the general pool of freshmen to meet their FYE requirement. He welcomes their participation in the FYEs that the University is sponsoring. [See attached email from Avron Abraham.]

Describe the rationale for the proposed program change(s):

(Explain your reasons for creating, revising, or deleting the curriculum or program)

Delete - POSC 241: Exploring International Relations
Major would be reduced by one credit to 51.

In fall 2005, the Department of Political Science and International Relations added a new one credit course requirement for its political science majors, POSC 241. This class satisfied the freshmen year experience (FYE) requirement for our majors. The course was run largely as a discussion section to POSC 240, Introduction to International Relations, and did not fulfill the goals of the FYE program. In the intervening years, the goals of the FYE program have become clearer and most of them are not fulfilled by our course, POSC 241. So, for example, our POSC 241 does not include sessions on alcohol awareness, safer sex, and conflict management. The classes are not interdisciplinary in terms of student majors and the classes do not make use of a common reader as happened this fall semester. Moreover, because the class is currently a required part of the major it must be taken for a grade whereas most FYE classes are pass/fail. Finally, the class is a drain on department resources as we have been assigning graduate students to teach the classes who could be serving as teaching assistants to our larger classes. (Alternatively, we would have to pay 2 "S" contracts to cover our six sections of POSC151 and POSC241.) Paradoxically, five of our faculty served as faculty for UNIV FYE classes this fall, though none of them were teaching any of our majors. For all of these reasons we would like to delete the POSC 241 requirement and have our students join the larger freshmen class in taking their FYE requirement outside their major.

Program Requirements:

(Show the new or revised curriculum as it should appear in the Course Catalog. If this is a revision, be sure to indicate the changes being made to the current curriculum and include a side-by-side comparison of the credit distribution before and after the proposed change)

International Relations is an interdisciplinary major in the College of Arts and Science with core (24 credits), concentration (18 credits), and regional specialization (9 credits) requirements. Students must choose one of four concentrations and one of five regional specializations, as detailed in the curriculum below. An honors degree option is available. All POSC courses taken for the IR major requires a minimum grade of C- or better. Students must also receive a C- or better in 30 of the 51 required credit hours and have a cumulative average of 2.0 in the 51 required hours.

Area Studies and the International Relations Major:

Students whose regional specialization is Africa, East Asia, or Latin America should give serious consideration to adding one of the university's Area Studies programs: African Studies, East Asian Studies, European Studies, Islamic Studies and Latin American Studies. Course work in these area studies programs will allow students to develop much richer and deeper knowledge of these regions. Moreover, most of the courses approved for the Regional Specialization within the International Relations major are also approved as fulfilling the Area Studies requirements thereby facilitating a minor or double major with an area studies program.

Study Abroad, Internships, and Undergraduate Research:

International Relations majors are strongly encouraged to consider a study abroad experience as a part of their program. Students participating in study abroad programs not only enrich their education through exposure to foreign cultures, but often have the opportunity to take courses, internships, and undertake other educational experiences abroad not otherwise offered in University of Delaware course lists. In many instances, these courses may count towards IR Concentration and Regional Specialization requirements. Similarly, internships and undergraduate research experiences offered from the Newark campus may be applied to IR Concentration and Regional Specialization requirements. Students should check with the Director of Undergraduate Studies when enrolling in study abroad courses and programs, internships, and undergraduate research programs to determine if the specific course, program, or educational experience meets a particular IR major requirement, or, if some major requirement might be waived by means of study abroad, internships, or undergraduate research programs.

Transfer Students:

Students changing their major to international relations must have a minimum grade point average of 2.0. Students transferring to the major from outside the University of Delaware will have their transcripts evaluated by the director on a case-by-case basis. For information contact Professor Alice Ba, 461 Smith Hall (302) 831-1937 or by e-mail: aliceba@udel.edu.

Hi Gretchen,

We are excited that your students in Political Science/International Relations are going to be part of the UNIV 101 Freshmen Seminar for the Fall 2010. As I mentioned this is a one credit pass/fail seminar led by a faculty instructor and supported by a peer mentor.

Let me if you have any questions and I look forward to working with you.

Thanks,

Avron

Hi Avron, I was thinking that it might be good for us to have an email from you stating that you have no problem if we get rid of our own fye, posc 151 and posc 241. Would you mind a line or two to that effect.
Just in case questions come up when we try to drop those two 'courses.'
Thanks, Gretchen
