Describe the rationale for the proposed program change(s):

(Explain your reasons for creating, revising, or deleting the curriculum or program.)

On January 1, 2011, the School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy became the School of Public Policy and Administration and moved to the College of Arts and Sciences. There are two reasons for the proposed revisions of the B.S. Degree in Organizational and Community Leadership.

- 1. The BS in Organizational and Community Leadership needs to be revised to meet the requirements for the BS degree within the College of Arts and Sciences. These include increasing the number of credits for the BS degree from 120 to 124, increasing the range of credits for the First Year Experience from 0-3 to 0-4, changing the wording for the level of the Math requirement, adding a stronger foreign language requirement, and adding the College of Arts and Science's breadth requirements which includes a 4 credit lab science which will replace our current 3 credit Physical and/or Biological Science requirement.
- 2. The Organizational and Community Leadership major courses requirements are being revised to provide more flexibility in course options.
 - The 3 credit Political Science requirement is being eliminated and those credits are now in the A&S Breadth Requirements.
 - The MATH 202 requirement is being broadened to include an opportunity to take other statistical and research methods courses as approved by the student's advisor.
 - The options to complete the requirements for both LEAD 400 and LEAD 411 have been broadened to include courses within the School of Public Policy and Administration, or other courses approved by the student's advisor.
 - These revisions also eliminate the current four areas of interest and allow students more flexibility to define their area in conjunction with their faculty advisor. Students will still have the opportunity to pursue a minor.

Program Requirements:

Organizational and Community Leadership majors are prepared to accept the challenge of leadership in an increasingly complex, global, and fast-paced world. Their knowledge and skills enable them to enter and succeed in a wide variety of careers.

Organizational and Community Leadership prepares students, through coursework, experiences and discovery learning, to mobilize people for ethical, socially responsible, and sustainable change that improves the quality of our lives and environments. Organizational and Community Leadership majors gain knowledge of: social, economic, political and technological factors that impact problems and paths of solutions; organizational and personal behaviors; and the complexities of, and the necessity for, collaborations among public, private and non-profit organizations. Organizational and Community Leadership students also make great strides in their own personal and professional development by gaining competencies in effective communication, decision-making, problem recognition, and strategic problem-solving. They acquire the ability to develop, communicate and implement visions and strategies that mobilize organizations and followers for change.

With careful planning and advisement, Organizational and Community Leadership majors have the opportunity to earn a Bachelor of Science degree and a Master of Public Administration (MPA) degree in less than the usual six years. An Honors Degree option is available. Additional information is available from the program office. Students who wish to change from another major in the University are advised to contact the program office regarding policies and procedures.
