RE: The Athletic Training major and requirements

This letter of support confirms that HLTH 241: "Ethical Aspects of Healthcare" has been approved by the College of Health Sciences Curriculum committee. This three-credit course will be available during spring semester first to students in the Athletic Training major and then to students from all majors, future health care practitioners, policy makers, and health care consumers. The course currently fulfills the Group A breadth requirement.

The course is coordinated and managed through the offices of the Associate and Assistant Deans. It is available in two formats, on campus and online.
